

Port-au-Prince, January 13th 2012

Dear VHP Friends!

I share sadness and pleasure to let you know about the gathering of earthquake remembrance, and my hope for a better condition of life towards my project in Duchity.

Two years after the greatest catastrophe Haiti has ever known, people still suffer the effects and still hope a better condition of life. Not long after the earthquake, you were right beside the Haitian people, in Fond-Parisien, to help the victims, including my family. I'm very grateful to you and it's unforgettable.

The main result from the effects of the quake is the concentration of people in Port-au-Prince. I think I have come up with an answer: The idea of a vocational school center in Duchity. This project wants to be part of the decentralization, which is highly necessary for Haiti. Without a vocational school, too many young people leave Duchity (and other small villages) to go live in the fragile condition of life in the cities.

This idea began with VHP and I still count on your support. No words can say how much your contribution is helpful to this special project. Above all, I'm highly sure that you and I have the same feeling, and the same goals, towards that project for Duchity community.

We are in the middle of the road, and we still look ahead. Nothing is possible without you. With good collaboration we can do incredible things and the vocational school center of Duchity is already real proof.

Hoping that you'll always keep your hands in mine, I send my best wishes of success and growth to you. May God confer prosperity and blessing on you for the New Year!
